Tip 5: Attract attention with an eye catching profile headline.

Let them come to you like bees to honey! Why waste your time searching while you can have women beating their path to you. However you must first write a profile with a headline that can pull in potential partners.

Your profile headline is like a classified ad, screaming and waving for attention to those that are browsing and searching profiles.

So what if you are not a copywriter, you can create eye-catching profile headline in simple steps. Here are some advices.

Please do not write boring, traditional profile like:

--looking for woman of my dreams

--Hi, I am just looking to make some friends around the world

--I exercise a few times per week

--I like my dates to be assertive in decisions and follow my lead

Who would want to know how many times you brush your teeth, your every little things in life doesn't excite your prospective partners. Or your expectation of a prospective partner does not even sound any interesting.

This is very important; you have to write the headline and profile that will show the part of you that are fun, exciting to be in company with.

Women like men with aspirations regardless of age, race or religion.

Write your dreams and aspirations down even if it is outrageous. Women who saw your profile headline would admire and respect you and it will make them read further in your profile thus increasing your chances.

Now I will show you a time tested and proven headline that have women begging to meet me, sending me winks and emails.

Here it is:

Profile headline

"I believe life is constantly testing us for our level of commitment,"

Yes it may sounds boring but who cares, it work like crazy.

-->Click here to see how desperate they are...

-->another proof of eager members who want to meet me...

-->another proof of members expressing their interest in me...

-->there is no holding them back once they desire you...

The complete profile:

"Life experiences should be treasured whether it's good or bad... some of the words that describe me...Dare to Dream, Do the unthinkable, creative, I would rather live by my dreams then live in regret...."

Yes you may copy exactly the same but eventually everyone dreams and aspirations are different, therefore you should write your own and make yourself stand out.
